

Light the Darkness

Since 2001, the UK has marked Holocaust Memorial Day with a national ceremony on 27 January. On the same day we invite you to join us at 8pm for a national moment to Light the Darkness by placing a candle in your window.

Across the country, landmarks will also light up, shining brightly with purple lights to symbolise solidarity and take a stand against the escalating prejudice and hate crimes we see today.

Together, we commemorate and educate for a better future.

Holocaust Memorial Day 27 January

HOLOCAUST
DAY TRUST

Holocaust Memorial Day (HMD) is a national day that takes place on 27 January.

We commemorate the six million Jewish men, women and children murdered during the Holocaust, and the millions more murdered under Nazi persecution.

Prejudice still continues today within our communities and across the UK.

We also learn and commemorate where persecution led in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia and Darfur.

With your support, we can bring the nation together to remember persecutions of the past and stand against hatred and prejudice in the present.

The Holocaust Memorial Day Trust is the charity established by the government to promote and support Holocaust Memorial Day in the UK. We help protect the legacy of the Holocaust against denial and distortion, and shape a future built on empathy, understanding and respect.

Learning from the past – resources and guides

We have a wide range of educational resources to help and support you in planning your own Holocaust Memorial Day activity.

Discover powerful life stories of survivors and victims, school materials, films, images and engaging activities that bring history to the present. From moving poems and traditional recipes to first-hand testimonies and in-depth guides, there is something for every age group and setting.

The resources include life stories from survivors of the Holocaust, and in Cambodia, Rwanda, Bosnia and Darfur.

Each year, thousands of organisations and communities take part across the UK, to help us build awareness and learn lessons from the past. With your support, we can reach more.
